Abstract

Human beings are social persons and cannot live without other supports. They need many things to complete their life. But if people's life is far away from those supports, it can make their behavior or attitude change. This thesis analyzes about someone's behavior change because of less of supports. The supports are physiological needs, safety needs, belonging and love needs, esteem needs, self-actualization, experience, feeling loneliness. He has to struggle to stay alive at the isolated island without others. By analyzing the film Cast Away, people can be seen as weak creatures, who need many factors to support their life. They have to try to get all those needs to fulfill their life. These events need diligence and patience from the main character to pass all problems.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I believe that I could accomplish this thesis because the help of the Supreme and Almighty God, Jehovah. I could feel His guidance and the loving-kindness. In process of finishing my thesis, I would like to thank to Mrs. Ianneke Indra Dewi as the Dean of Faculty of Letters, Mrs. Wiwik Andreani as the Head of English Department of Faculty of Letters, and Mr. Rudy Purwanto. To Mrs. Retnowati, thanks a million as being my Mentor. You have been helpful and given me some practical direction for my thesis. I also really appreciate and thank for my parents’ support, especially the moral support that they have shown to me. Finally, I also want to deliver my thankfulness to all the help that has been shown by shown by whom that I could not say one by one.

Jakarta, June 2005
TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER 1 INTRODUCTION ............................................................................. 1
  1.1. Background of the Study ................................................................. 1
  1.2. Statement of the Problem ............................................................... 3
  1.3. Scope and Limitation ..................................................................... 3
  1.4. Goal and Function ......................................................................... 4
  1.5. Research Methodology .................................................................. 4

CHAPTER 2 THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK .................................................. 5
  2.1. Human Behavior ........................................................................... 5
  2.2. The Reason of Human Behavior Changes ...................................... 10
  2.3. Factors Support the Changing ...................................................... 12
    2.3.1. Physiological needs ................................................................ 13
    2.3.2. Safety Needs .......................................................................... 14
    2.3.3. Belonging or Love .................................................................. 15
    2.3.4. Esteem Needs .......................................................................... 16
    2.3.5. Self-Actualization Needs ......................................................... 18
    2.3.6. Experience ............................................................................. 18
    2.3.7. Loneliness .............................................................................. 19
  2.4. Result .............................................................................................. 20

CHAPTER 3 NOLAND'S CHANGE OF BEHAVIOR IN CASTAWAY .............. 22
  3.1. Human Behavior .......................................................................... 22
3.2. The Reason of Human Behavior Changes.................................36
3.3. Factors Support the Change..............................................43
  3.3.1. Physiological needs.................................................44
  3.3.2. Safety Needs.......................................................53
  3.3.3. Belonging or Love................................................55
  3.3.4. Esteem Needs.......................................................57
  3.3.5. Self-Actualization Needs.......................................59
  3.3.6. Experience.........................................................60
  3.3.7. Loneliness........................................................63
3.4. Result...........................................................................64

CHAPTER 4 CONCLUSION.........................................................67

CHAPTER 5 SUMMARY (INDONESIAN)........................................69

References.................................................................72
Curriculum Vitae.........................................................73