ABSTRACT

This paper analyses the mistakes commonly made in the use of several forms of Future tense. The aim of the research is to examine the student's ability over learning grammar, in this matter, doing mixed up exercises of Future tense using four different verb forms of will, be going to, Present Progressive and Present Simple.

The methodology used in doing the research is library study and surveying, that is by distributing questionnaire to some students of Bina Nusantara University. Analysis is done by grouping the mistakes respondents made and presenting them in the forms of percentage and charts.

Based on the results of the analysis, the writer then concludes that the respondents still meet difficulty, in doing jumbled up exercises in four forms of Future tense.

Keywords: Analysis, Future tense, Mistake, Grammar.
ACKNOWLEDGMENT

First of all I would like to thank God for answering my prayers, because of His Mercy I have strength to complete this paper entitled “Analysing the Common Mistakes of Future Tense”.

In the precious moments of writing the final assignment, I am in debt to many people who have willingly helped me in the process of completing the paper. These people have supported and encouraged as well as prayed for my success.

I, firstly wish to extend my sincere gratitude to my mentor, Mr. Rudy Purwanto, M.Ed. for being the best mentor I have ever had. He has patiently spent his time helping me complete this paper. He has also given me guidance, valuable comments and suggestions, and he even lent me some books relevant to my topic of writing. Thanks for his kindness; I wish him the best success in all aspects of his life.

Many thanks also go to Miss Lily Novita Mudjianto, for allowing me to do the survey in her classrooms and for giving valuable information I needed.

I also wish to express my great appreciation to the Dean of the Faculty of Letters, Mrs., Jenneke Indra Dewi, Dra., M.Hum. and to the Head of the English Department, Mrs., Wiwik Andreani, Dra. for providing valuable information necessary for the completion of this paper.

Great thanks are also addressed to the students of the English Department who became respondents in the research project and who have volunteered filling out the questionnaires I distributed which without them this analysis will not be accomplished. I wish them success in their studies.
I am grateful to all the lecturers in my beloved university who have taught me while I am studying there, especially to Mrs. Rinie Handayanie who have cooperated in the survey.

My biggest thanks is addressed to my Mom, whose constant prayers have given me support and encouragement in writing the paper, and my special thanks goes to my close friend, Deddy Ariffin and also for my best friends, Nurhasanah and Khairunnisa who have given supports and helps as well as accompanying me while finishing this paper, I hope some day I might be able to repay all the kindness, caring and love given. I love you.

Last but not least, for the support of my family and also to others who can not be mentioned one by one, I thank them all.

Jakarta, July 2001
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abstract.............................................................................................................i
Acknowledgment............................................................................................ii
Table of Contents...........................................................................................iv
List of Tables.....................................................................................................vi
List of Graphs....................................................................................................vii

CHAPTER 1 INTRODUCTION.............................................................................1
  1.1 Background..............................................................................................1
  1.2 Statement of Problem............................................................................2
  1.3 Scope and Limitation.............................................................................2
  1.4 Goal and Function................................................................................3
  1.5 Research Methodology..........................................................................3

CHAPTER 2 LITERATURE REVIEW.................................................................5
  2.1 Definition of Error and Mistake............................................................5
  2.2 Learning Grammar of Future Tense......................................................6
    2.2.1 Meaning of Future Tense...............................................................7
    2.2.2 Function of Forms of Future Tense...............................................8
      2.2.2.1 Will..........................................................................................8
      2.2.2.2 Be going to..............................................................................10
      2.2.2.3 Present Progressive...............................................................11
2.2.2.4 Present Simple ................................................................. 13

CHAPTER 3 ANALYSIS ................................................................. 14

3.1 Analysing Process ................................................................. 14
3.2 Present Progressive ............................................................. 15
3.3 Be going to ................................................................. 17
3.4 Present Simple ................................................................. 18
3.5 Will ................................................................. 20
3.6 The Overall Result ............................................................ 21
3.7 Result of Analysis ............................................................. 24
3.8 Practical Tips in Learning Future Tense ................................. 25

CHAPTER 4 CONCLUSION .............................................................. 28

4.1 Conclusion ................................................................. 28
4.2 Suggestion ................................................................. 28

CHAPTER 5 SUMMARY (IN INDONESIAN) ..................................... 30

References
Appendix/Tables
Curriculum Vitae
LIST OF TABLES

Table 3.1 Percentage of Mistake in Present Progressive......................16
Table 3.2 Percentage of Mistake in Be going to..................................18
Table 3.3 Percentage of Mistake in Present Simple..............................19
Table 3.4 Percentage of Mistake in Will............................................21
Table 3.5 Percentage of Overall Mistakes in Will, Be going to, Present Progressive, and Present Simple...........................................23
LIST OF GRAPHS

Graph 3.1 Percentage of Mistake in Present Progressive ........................................ 16
Graph 3.2 Percentage of Mistake in Be going to ..................................................... 17
Graph 3.3 Percentage of Mistake in Present Simple ............................................... 19
Graph 3.4 Percentage of Mistake in Will ............................................................... 20
Graph 3.5 Percentage of Overall Mistakes in Will, Be going to, Present Progressive and Present Simple ..................................................................................................... 22
APPENDIXES

Graphs of Mistake Percentage.......................................................... A1

Questionnaires................................................................................. A6